

FLIERS SEEKING NEW LANDS AT 'TOP OF THE WORLD,' SAYS NOBILE

PERFECT SKIES IN NORTH

By GEN. UMBERTO NOBILE, Command-in-Chief of the Dirigible Italia.

Aboard the Dirigible Italia, En route Northward, May 16, 7:15 p. m.—We are approximately at the following position:

Latitude 50, north; longitude 92, east, Greenwich.

We have passed over a large expanse of sea which is free from ice, extending over several kilometers and forming a rectangular measuring five or six kilometers at least on its larger side.

New pink ice has reappeared. The visibility is excellent.

The sky is cloudy and the north wind still impeding our advance, making navigation of the airship difficult.

All continue well on board.

We are proceeding over a frozen sea. Visibility is 50 miles. The sky is serene.

We are crossing a region hitherto unexplored in the direction of the extreme north of Nicholas II land. All are well aboard.

At 11:15 p. m. position is latitude 52, north; longitude 73.45, east. A considerable wind blowing from the north has delayed our flight, reducing our speed to 45 kilometers per hour. The sky is cloudy, but visibility continues good. All are well, and we are proceeding comfortably enough.

(Note: A message from the "Nobile" says: "We hope to sight Nicholas II land soon.")

It was at 5:30 that I led the thermometer registering 15 degrees below zero. The Italian is returning to King's Bay by way of Cape Zebray, Nova Zembla.

Throughout the long flight the radio was in perfect working condition, not being affected by the intense cold nor the changing meteorological conditions over the North Pole.

For was encountered approaching Franz Joseph Land. This caused the formation of a coating of ice on the ship, but by flying low Nobile found better visibility and avoided the ice hazard.

It was planned at the start of the flight that when the ship reached Lenin Land an ice anchor would be dropped and three men lowered to the ground to explore the region for scientific purposes. No word of such a landing has been received.

point of the Franz Joseph Archipelago, is free of ice. The perfect visibility increases my hope that a landing may be effected. I am flying low over Tepits Bay, where the "Bella Polara," the Duke of Abruzzi's ship, wintered.

I have dropped on the ice at the 824 parallel a symbol of St. Mark, in memory of Francesco Querini, the duke's heroic second in command, who lost his life here nearly 20 years ago.

Ex-Cop Offers to Bare Secrets of Graft Ring

district attorneys, in their comments, referred to as "squawking."

They represent men who make a practice of doing "anatomy" business with the confident knowledge that skillful handling of the case by their attorneys will save them from prosecution and even from making restitution.

MULLEN QUALIFIES STORY

These attorneys, it is said, make settlements out of court with the attorneys representing the victims, settling for a small fraction of the sum actually stolen after making the "squawking" that their chattering clients are "broke" and can pay the smaller amount or nothing at all.

Thousands of dollars yearly are taken from susceptibles in the city by means of these methods of trading and settling, according to the stories.

John P. Mullen, the "boy broker" and one of the five indicted by the grand jury in its investigation of an alleged "shakedown" of the proprietor of the Fitz Hotel, Columbus ave., today in his cell in Charlestown, said he had no knowledge of the alleged grafting by at least 15 Boston politicians.

He admitted, however, that he had named policemen "involved in the hotel case" and "involved in my own case."

Previously he had declared that he had "let more to talk" but that the "powers" were going to "eat" him. He had also asserted that his health was so bad that he would probably die before the hotel case came to trial.

"I told Asst. Dist. Atty. Doyle the names of police officers concerned in the case of the South End hotel, and also the names of other police officers concerned in my own case," he said today.

By his own account he meant the 15 charges of larceny against him, arising from transactions while he was conducting a stock brokerage office in State st. Mullen is held in $12,000 bail in this case and $2000 additional bail in the hotel case.

NICHOLAS COCKINOS JAMES A. HATTON
Two of five indicted on "graft" charges. Specifically the men are charged with mulcting various persons, taking money, it is alleged, for "protection" of these individuals in pursuit of their several activities.

It was reported that his friends refrained from providing bail because, following stories of his statements to the district attorney, a jail cell was considered the safest place for him for his own sake.

"The number of policemen named did not total 15, nor any where near that number," said Mullen, continuing his statement today, which he made in the presence of his attorney, Dewey Radner, who visited the jail.

"Some of the policemen I named. I told all that I am reported as having told. I would have to know pretty nearly all the police department, I guess. I told my story concerning my part, and that's all."

GROSS 'LOST THOUSANDS'

District Attorney William J. Foley refused to make any statement because, he said, Mullen's case is now a pending one before the courts. He denied that he was in possession of any information from Mullen which directly involved 15 policemen in graft.

Asked if he was at the present time investigating any case other than the hotel case, he replied: "Every complaint that comes to this office that warrants investigation, no matter what the charges, is thoroughly investigated."

Ralph Gross of Lowell, one of the five indicted, admitted today at his home that he had lost thousands of dollars in his dealings with Mullen.

Gross declared that it was he who recommended to John Sullivan, the owner of the Fitz Hotel, that Sullivan engage the services of Atty-

James A. Hatton, now one of Gross' co-defendants.

He refused to say how much money he had lost in stocks, except that, "it would save break a poor man."

"I got into trouble through trying to help Mullen get back for me some of the money I had lost," he said. "I wasn't associated with Mullen on any deals except with regard to its payment of my own money and my mother's."

"I not only lost my money but my wife and child, too, as a result of it all. When, two weeks ago, I read the first newspaper stories of alleged graft, I read between the lines and knew that I was meant by references to an 'associate' of Mullen."

"Thereupon I went to the district attorney's office and voluntarily gave all the information that I had."

"Mr. Hatton had recommended to Sullivan because I consider Hatton one of the best lawyers in Boston and thoroughly honest. I will be greatly surprised if it proves true that he was connected with anything wrong."

FAMOUS REMBRANT IS SOLD FOR $264,000

London, May 17 (AP)—High prices were reached today at the sale of the Hatford collection of famous paintings. Rembrandt's "Portrait of a man holding a torch," another painting called "Portrait of a man holding a staff," brought $242,000 and Cypri's "Dordrecht" fetched $110,000.

SLAIN BY MAN SHE SPURNED

In Spanish, then several shots and she summoned police. They found Miss Montero dead, wrapped in a Spanish shawl that, associates said, King Alfonso of Spain had presented to her.

Columbus was lying nearby, an automatic pistol in his hand and a wound in his temple.

"I shot her because I loved her and she wouldn't have any more to do with me," Columbus said before he slipped into unconsciousness.

Four letters found in his pocket, one to police, two to friends and one to the Argentine consul, gave directions for disposal of his body.

Miss Montero was a native of Seattle, Wash. She first appeared in New York in Raymond Hitchcock's "The Wheel Revolves" and since then in several other shows. She was in Douglas Fairbanks' film, "The Gaucho," as a Spanish dancer.

THOUSANDS IN DETROIT WELCOME BREMEN CREW

Detroit, May 17 (AP)—The Junkers plane P-13 bearing the crew of the transatlantic Bremen landed at the Ford airport at 10:45 a. m. today, completing an interrupted hop from St. Louis by way of Indianapolis.

The crew were met in the air outside the city by a group of planes headed by Eddie Stinson, flying the around-the-world plane, the Pride of Detroit, and were escorted to the airport.

Throngs showed during the morning and threatening clouds, a crowd of 10,000 persons was at the airport. They also were met by the mayor's reception committee and the party, escorted by motorcycle police, immediately started for the City Hall to be officially welcomed by Mayor John C. Lodge.

Throngs of thousands packed the streets around the City Hall to give the fliers an ovation at their first public appearance here after being rescued by the mayor.

FLIERS DELAYED DAY, ARRIVE SATURDAY

New York, that Bremen fliers have postponed their arrival in Boston for 24 hours. Now planning to arrive at 6 o'clock Saturday, May 19, instead of the scheduled evening Friday, May 18.

This is the second postponement and rules require notification and greatest plans in history of the city.

The shipments nearly 2,000,000 people and plans already arranged completely.

The fliers in Boston, the fourth largest city in the United States, is so important that every effort should be made to have them arrive on Friday evening and your cooperation will be gratefully appreciated. Urgent beyond words.

Governor Fuller took the postponement more calmly, announcing merely that his presentation of state medals to the fliers will be postponed a day to time of arrival on Saturday.

Just what change will be made in the Boston reception plans is even more uncertain. The mayor is unable to have them arrive tomorrow as arranged is impractical.

Mayor Andrew H. Peters declared he would make no switch in plans until he had visited every aspect of the problem.

MAX CANSEL PARADE

It is possible that the huge public reception in the Boston Arena will be held Saturday night, May 19, and the parade will be set forward from Sunday to Monday.

An equally good guess is that the parade will be canceled altogether. On the way to Boston, no matter what the reason, the fliers will be on the journey is made, Albany officials will also notified of the postponement arrival.

It is probable the program for the Sunday field day mass at Fenway Park and the parade proceeding will hold.

Bad weather forced the transatlantic trio to land their Junkers P-13, winter ship, at Fenway, Boston, at Indianapolis last night. The fliers will en route from St. Louis to Detroit.

Plummers had a chance to get a little exercise from Fenway yesterday during the overnight stay at Indianapolis where, because they had not been expected, no entertainment program was ready.

The wives of Max Farnsworth and Capt. Hermann Koehl, who visited Indianapolis from Chicago, remained in the former city today as guests of Richard Kutz, Indianapolis banker and a cousin of the comely German "Flea."

LUNCHEON PLANNED

Incidental to the program of entertainment in readiness for the fliers in the Hub, the German Consul General and Burgrave Kuntze today will give a luncheon and reception breakfasting today that they from 1 to 3 p. m. Sunday at their three transatlantic fliers.

If the weather is fair the luncheon and reception will take place in the garden. Guests totaling 100 have been invited, including editors of Boston newspapers, Governor and Mrs. Alvin O. Fuller, Mayor and Mrs. Malcolm E. Nichols, British Vice-Consul of Washington, British Vice-Consul of London, Prof. Burkhard and Prof. Taylor.

IRISH DISH

Chicago, May 17 (AP)—Ten thousand sand tons of sand were being moved today by volunteer workers to unseat the fate of little John Pyrolos.

Playmates of the eight-year-old boy, after telling varying stories, said he had been buried in a box ear which had been later hauled away, finally to be found by the he had been buried in a sand slide.

The search was led by James W. Alder, health officer of the sand and gravel company on whose property the boy was believed buried. Movement of the sand was stopped today to allow the task, but Alder promised that it would be moved, if necessary, to find the boy.

That Pyrolos, if buried there, was dead seemed certain. The search, however, was not purely to retrieve the anxiety of the mother, who, physicians said, was seriously affected.

The father of the boy led the searchers last night, being finally compelled to stop through exhaustion.

CAROL QUIETLY SLIPS AWAY TO BELGIUM

Dover, Eng., May 17.—Prince Carol, whose activities have kept the Rumanian royal house at a fever pitch, is in Belgium today, having left his sanctuary in England at the request of the government.

Though the hint was politely worded Carol was told to go of his own volition or be deported.

With him went the beautiful Mrs. Lupescu, who has been his constant companion since he renounced claim to the Rumanian throne.

He fooled newspapermen and other folk merely curious, as he had gotten in England, so that the photographers did not get a shot at him.

An army of onlookers was waiting for the Prince to leave the house of a friend in Surrey where guests he was throughout his stay in England. The word was passed that he was going over the road to London. When a heavily-curtained limousine rolled away from the house reporters and all the curious followed the bait and followed the car all the way to London. In traffic some of the trailing machines were able to draw to alongside the car where they found two smiling children of Carol's host.

Meanwhile, Carol and his wife walked coolly out of the house after the army had disappeared and took automobiles for Dover, where they immediately boarded a Channel steamer for Ostend.

Gov. Al Smith may or may not burst right out crying today, but the fact remains that the members of the Harvard Democratic Club chose Thomas J. Walsh of Montana as Democratic presidential standard-bearer.

Despite the fact that Charles A. McNamara, of the Massachusetts State Democratic Committee, addressing the mock convention, hailed Smith as the real Democratic candidate, the New York governor was tied for choice with Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War in the Wilson cabinet.

When the tie could not be split the chairman of delegates from the 48 States, went into conference and selected Walsh as the compromise candidate. Baker was nearly nominated on the sixth and eighth ballots.

PENILESS BOY CLAIMS ESTATE OF $5,000,000

His mother's picture, which he has carried for seven years while waiting the seven seas, and a military decoration won by his father, form the ladder by which Bruce Thorburn hopes to climb out of a Dover at lodging house to the big city, assured by a fortune of $5,000,000.

The boy, 25 years old, who is paying 25 cents a night for his lodging even as he fights for the huge fortune, believes that he is sole heir to the estate of James D. I. Thorburn, late of Perth, Australia, as he believes this man was his father.

A stranger story than that heard into the case of Alvin Karpis, 31, who was in the Old South Building was never heard by a Boston lawyer.

Young Thorburn doesn't remember Australia though his mother had told him he was born there. He first remembers living with his mother in Seattle, where she supported him and herself by dress-making. She died when he was 12 years old, but told him nothing of his father.

However, she had given him her photograph and on the back was written: "Bruce, shed forgive me. My heart is 1,904 Perth Ave. of Mrs. Hopkins and James D. I. Thorburn."

Wear without Weight—Strength and Lightness without bulk, is the secret of success in the construction of this thoroughbred English model.

There's just as much difference between a genuine English Featherweight and a heavy English Brogue as there is between a race horse and a truck horse.

And adding weight is the way they handicap a race horse—and added weight is a handicap to any man who walks.

This original light weight English Oxford, was purchased by us in Regent Street, London, from the best known maker of high priced shoes in England. In color, pattern and last it's a West End design, and represents the choice of the best dressed men in London.

The Regal reproduction is exactly the same in color and pattern, and the lasts are identical in measurements and appearance. The Upper Leather in the Original and Reproduction is an Imported Brown Calfskin, and the Light Weight Sole in both shoes is Oak Bark Tanned.

Now, we think we have made a wonderful reproduction of this genuine English shoe and to prove it we bought 36 pairs of the English model so that we could show one English shoe with the Regal reproduction in 72 Regal stores from Coast to Coast.

This English model is only one of many new lightweight styles that we are showing today. We have other styles, made of Imported and Domestic Calfskin, with broad and narrow toes, leather heels and rubber heels, full lined and skeleton lined. And they're all reproductions of exclusive high priced models—and they're all $6.60.

THE DAILY DIZZY
By HUBAN

By HELEN ROWLAND.

It takes more than the average man's intuition to know whether his wife's glare across the dinner table means "Stop flirting with that woman!" or "Tuck your shirt in. It's bulging!"

Next to landing a job that is no use for, nothing gives a man such a thrill or triumph as snatching a woman he doesn't want from the arms of a man who wants her.

With a mass of dusky hair, with kind, drooping eyelids. And a wicked, worldly air. But, oh, I love my fingers. And I breathe a little longer. When I meet a blonde-haired Cutie With a blue-eyed baby stare!

Every day in every way, marriage, like love and kisses, is booming and soaring for a man who is—and it is becoming harder and harder to keep him to himself.

Divorce used to be a tragedy of scandal and recrimination; now it is becoming just a pleasant little social affair, as refined as flour, as merry as a race horse and as easy as having a tooth out with novocaine.

The more interesting a man finds you, the longer he takes to reach the jelling point; a man only starts kissing, these days, when he can't think of anything else to do.

All these campaign promises read like the average man's love letters—sincerely sincere and flattering, but also sincerely vague and non-committal.

People weren't really so prudish as they are credited about the sex question in the old days; they just had something else to talk about. Copyright, 1928, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Miss J. Fontanella Tells How Cuticura Healed Pimples

"My face began to break out with pimples, also my back. At first the pimples were very red, and after a few days they would burst and run very hard. They itched and when I scratched them it caused me eruptions. My face looked so badly that I did not care to go out. The trouble lasted two years."

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. After using it I purchased more and in one week there was a great improvement. I continued using them and in one month I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Jennie Fontanella, 617 E. Main St., Meriden, Conn.

FIGHT FOR MORE CONGRESSMEN FACES HOUSE

Washington, May 17 (AP)—The House of Representatives today took up the fight for more congressmen in the House of Representatives.

The bill met little opposition from representatives of 17 states that would have members under the bill. Although the Constitution provides for reapportionment every 10 years, based upon the census, no reapportionment has been made since 1911.

Reapportionment of widespread opposition "in a disapproval of present reform, the bill of Representatives from 103 of Connecticut provides for reapportionment of the House of Representatives in 1930, and that if Congress fails to act, the Secretary of Commerce shall apportion Congressmen among 103 states.

The bill falls three years in the balance of action before 1930, and Congress for the first time in 150 years will have reapportioned the House of Representatives.

"It is an accident it will pass because it provides for equal representation for all."

House leaders opposing enlargement, declared that their constituents cannot function properly.

MISSISSIPPI CASE EXPOSED BY COURT

In the early edition of yesterday's Boston Evening American, the editorial, "Grafting Politicians," contained references to a Mills police officer, accused and tried on a conspiracy charge. While the editorial did not state the police officer to be drawn from that portion of it referring to Mills was that the police officer had been found guilty.

Arthur P. Schell, the Mills police chief, who was tried on the conspiracy charge, was found not guilty in federal court. Not only was he acquitted but the town of Mills was indemnified to the extent of $1000.

Mr. Schell was a town and evening American takes this occasion to apologize for having unwittingly placed Mills as a town and Chief Schell, as an individual in the light of a misnomer.
